

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This report is the product of efforts by dozens of Oregonians from the private and public sector who, under the leadership of Governor Goldschmidt, participated in strategic planning committees and in many other ways. Each of the strategy committees (whose members are listed below) wrote reports and made direct presentations to the Governor. In many cases material from those committee reports has been directly integrated into this report. In addition, people too numerous to mention from state agencies, the Economic Development Department, and elsewhere reviewed material and made contributions throughout this process.

Duncan Wyse, Manager of Policy and Strategic Planning at the Economic Development Department was the project manager for the strategic planning process and is the principal author of this report. At every phase of this process, Ed Whitelaw provided oversight for the Economic Development Commission, offering skilled guidance and innumerable suggestions. In addition, the Policy Committee members (listed below) generously contributed hours in discussing strategy direction and in reviewing material. Kathleen Curtis Dotten played an invaluable role in the formative stages in designing the planning process, and in organizing private sector participation. John Svicarovich served as editor, refining the logic and language of the report and producing it in final form. Scott Bailey, Tim Houchen, Andy Russell, Peter Tryon and Jerry Wood, staff of the Economic Development Department's Policy and Strategic Planning Office made major contributions in drafting sections of this document and assisting throughout the process.

Zoe Johnson, management assistant for the Policy and Strategic Planning Office, has been tireless in her efforts to keep this project on track in all phases. In many instances, she accomplished the impossible.

The Economic Development Commission, chaired by Roger Smith took an active interest from the beginning. Many commission members served on the formal committees.

The Trade and Economic Development Committee of the Legislature also took an early interest in this project, and conducted two interim hearings on the strategic plan. The Committee's co-chairs, Sen. Joyce Cohen (1987-98 biennium), Sen. Wayne Fawbush, and Rep. Margaret Carter, and the committee's executive director, Joe Cortright, provided encouragement and suggestions throughout the process.

Dick Reiten, who was OEDD director when this project began, has been supportive throughout. OEDD's new director, Bob Buchanan has been equally encouraging and helpful, as has been David Lohman, deputy director, who has been with this project from the beginning.
